RULING ON BERRY ESTATE. Supreme Court Affirms Decision of

Lower Tribunal.

The United States Supreme Court has affirmed the decision of the District of Columbia Court of Appeals in the case of A. D. Johnson and others against the Washington Loan and Trust Company. This case involves the title to the estate of the late Washington Berry of this city, and hinges upon the construction of the will of the deceased. The court today held that the re mainder of the title in fee vested in the Robert W. Cox, daughters of the deceased was not devisable and that the purchaser of the F. T. Hurley,
